

Choosing the Right Chemical Label

Since OSHA's HazCom 2012 regulations were published, there have been a lot of questions on the proper labeling of chemicals in American workplaces. This simple flowchart will help you quickly decide which label format is the best choice for your facility.

This guide is for general information only. It is not a substitute for review of the relevant standards.

DuraLabel's line of industrial label and sign printers can help make your work environment more safe and productive.

Contact us for the latest information on chemical safety and compliant labeling.

888.326.9244 | GraphicProducts.com